Fore! by John Fiske is a theatrical entertainment based on four short stories by P. G. Wodehouse.

The action takes place in and around Wood Hills Golf Club, somewhere in a sleepy England in the 1930's. The club's Oldest Member presents the audience with a gallery of unforgettable characters; foolish, love-struck young men and women, an appallingly pretentious poet, the overpowering chairwoman of Wood Hills Literary Club Mrs. Smethurst, a man who owes his golfing success entirely to his garish plus-fours, and not least the extraordinary visiting Russian writer Vladimir Brusilov.

The action is punctuated with golfing tips and a selection of popular songs of the day, including - inevitably - Tee for Two and It don't mean a thing if you ain't got that swing. Despite its subject matter, Fore! has a far wider appeal than merely to the golf enthusiast. Golf what-a-terrible-waste-of-time sceptics will also thoroughly enjoy it but should be aware that they run a serious risk of being infected with the desire to take up the noble game of golf as a result of seeing the show.
